

Ensuring seamless communication is critical for your business. To prevent interference and comply with regulations, all business-grade radio users should obtain an FCC license. While acquiring a license is at your discretion, our account representative are ready to assist with a streamlined and hassle-free application process.

Why Choose CavCom for FCC Licensing?

No more complex paperwork! While obtaining an FCC license can take up to six weeks, CavCom leverages industry expertise to expedite the process--potentially reducing the timeframe to as little as one week. If you're uncertain about your FRN number or existing license status, our account representative can help verify any active licenses or frequencies.

Key Benefits:

- FCC Licensing for Mobility-Only & Repeater Pair Sales
- Up to 10 Frequencies (10 Channels) Available - Valid for 10 years
- Simplified Application Process with Dedicated Account Manager Assistance
- Nationwide Installation Services

Information Required for FCC Licensing:

- Once you purchase an FCC license (mobile-only or with a repeater), customers must provide:
- A copy of your W9 (EIN/Taxpayer ID Number)
- Basic Company Information (Controller Contact Details)
- Physical Address (Including Longitude, Latitude, and Elevation for precise installation)
- Antenna and Repeater Location Details
- Any other customer-specific requirements

Upon approval, your mobiles, repeaters, and radios will be shipped ready for immediate use.

FCC Licensing Through CavCom: A Worry-Free Experience

By securing your FCC license through CavCom, you eliminate the stress of FCC-related compliance for up to 10 years. Our team manages all paperwork, notifications, and updates, ensuring you're always informed of any changes.

We strongly recommend FCC licensing for all business-grade two-way radio users. Without proper licensing, interference from nearby radios can disrupt your communication, and non-compliance may result in fines of up to $10,000 per day. Our partnership with expert frequency coordinators allows us to reduce the standard six-week licensing process to as little as 10 days, depending on specific factors, ensuring a quick and efficient setup.

Once granted, your FCC license is accessible anytime via the FCC website. However, CavCom can handle all maintenance aspects--application paperwork, correspondence, updates, and frequency programming--so you can focus on business operations without compliance concerns. For the next 10 years, we've got your back.

Tailored Solutions for Your Industry

Every industry has unique communication needs. Whether you're in public safety, education, construction, or another sector requiring long-range communication, our team will ensure your equipment is configured for optimal performance.
